Bob,
On Tuesday, the ENR committee will hold their natural gas hearing. EPA has not been invited to testify (as of last week). Senator Franken's staff is asking why the Pavillion report has been delayed anticipating that it may come up.
They are also asking whether EPA has authority to sample the water prior to well injection? If not, would it make sense to give EPA that authority?

Pamela,
Epa is still not testifying right? Have you been able to find out who is testifying yet? Can we find out how Pavillion might come up?
Thanks
Mary

Josh- ENR has a nat gas hearing Tuesday and the Pavillion investigation may come up. Trying to get a sense for why the final report has been delayed.

Also- does EPA have authority to sample the water prior to well injection? If not, would it make sense to give EPA that authority?
